

international meeting of emerging professionals concerning public space / life and voluntary initiatives

Since last year's success in organizing "p_public-Chania Otherwise, the Architects Association of Chania investigates the notion of public space for second year. On 3,4,5 and 6 of June 2011, the young architects of Chania are inviting young architects, artists, creative teams across the country and Europe, to present studies and projects on the improvement and beneficial use of public space, in a conference that will be held at the Centre of Mediterranean Architecture. Architectural proposals and interventions are complemented by parallel events in public places (music, drama, eco-Info points, games, installations, ride, outdoor picnics, etc.) around the city, organized by voluntary cooperation of heterogeneous forces. The conversation is transformed into a living experience, focusing on the relation of public space with residents and visitors, and on the disposal of city's communication, openness and creativity.

Within the overall restructuring of life and economy in Greece, we significantly improve the appearance and operation of our cities, so that they not only provide a pleasant environment for residents, but also a memorable image for visitors.

Furthermore, last year's success requires the establishment of this event as an annual activity of our town, in order to emphasize on the Center of Mediterranean Architecture and make it a platform of communication and exchange of ideas at national and European level.

The organization is a voluntary action by young people (mostly architects) that aims to promote the work of young professionals and artists in public space and to stimulate people in order to embrace public space and claim for it.
